UK and Ireland

The Scottish Highlands are in the north of Scotland. There are lots of mountains and the countryside is very beautiful.

In August, thousands of people come to the Edinburgh Festival. Singing, dancing, books, art, drama – you can see and do hundreds of things at the festival.

Hadrian's Wall was built by the Romans between AD 122 and 128. It went from sea to sea across the most northern part of England.

The Angel of the North stands on a hill near Newcastle. Some people like it, and some do not, but nearly every visitor to the north of England sees it.

Belfast is in Northern Ireland and has lots of beautiful buildings, including Belfast Castle and Belfast City Hall.

The Giant's Causeway, in the north, is made of strange rocks with six sides. From here you can see far out into the sea.

York is a beautiful and very old city. It has lots of castles and museums, as well as a splendid Cathedral – York Minster.

Dublin is a city of literature. Many well-known writers came from Dublin, including James Joyce, George Bernard Shaw, Oscar Wilde, and Bram Stoker.

Oxford Bookworm Factfiles:

Aberdeen 02 • Edinburgh Newcastle upon Tyne ISLEOFMAN Norwich Birmingham • Southamptor Carry on exploring with our Liverpool stands by the River Mersey. It is home to the Beatles and the Grand National – one of England's most famous horse races.

Stratford-upon-Avon is well known for being the birthplace of the playwright William Shakespeare.

Wales is a small country but has over 400 castles. It is sometimes called the 'castle capital of the world'.

Oxford is a university city. Oxford University has 38 colleges. Parts of the Harry Potter movies were filmed in Christ Church College.

Cork is the second largest city in the Republic of Ireland. It stands on the coast and is a city of culture, famous for music and dancing.

London is the capital of the UK and home to some of the most famous buildings in England: the Tower of London, St Paul's Cathedral, the Houses of Parliament and more.

Stonehenge was built between 3000 and 1500 BC. Nobody knows why it was built, but some of the stones came all the way from Wales.

You can only walk to St. Michael's Mount when the sea goes out.
When you get there you can go up the hill and visit the old castle and church.

www.oup.com/elt/maps

